K-State Research and Extension Policy

The local 4-H Youth Development program is administered by the extension board in partnership with the K-State Research and Extension Regional Director, within the policies and guidelines set forth by the Director of the Kansas State University Agricultural Experiment Station and Cooperative Extension Service (who authorizes and supervises the State 4-H Program Leader to review and update 4-H policy and guidelines).

County Fairs have been a valued historical partner in communities, providing a unique public venue to showcase youth achievements and project learning within 4-H Youth Development.

Participation in the 4-H youth division of fairs is to be based on the following criteria:

- The exhibit is the result of knowledge and skills learned within the 4-H project experience in the local club, group, event, enrichment program, or individual participation.
- The 4-H member is owner of project. In the case of dairy and horse projects, in which leasing of animals for 4-H projects is allowed, the 4-H members is considered the owner of the animal during the current project year.

(Section 13.3, Kansas 4-H Policy)

County Fair Policy Authority

Partnerships: County/State Fairs (Section 10.4, Kansas 4-H Policy)

K-State Research and Extension holds responsibility in cooperation with the 4-H council and/or fair board for developing 4-H rules at all 4-H county fairs and 4-H events. These rules must be consistent with the 4-H mission and 4-H policies (see Sections "2", "3", "4", "5", and "6") including site-based risk management planning.

K-State Research and Extension professionals who oversee the 4-H program are responsible for communicating with and upholding state and national 4-H policy to the 4-H council and the fair board, including fundraising efforts utilizing the name and emblem of 4-H (see "Section 3.5.6 Application to Use the 4-H Name and Emblem" and "Section 11.3: Fund Raising").

Local 4-H fair rules must be in compliance with and will not supersede state and national 4-H policy; however, fairs may design local classes and events that enhance the educational mission of the 4-H program. For example: Classes and events designed for Cloverbuds must not be competitive at any level in the organization.

Counties should establish a grievance process in conjunction with the local extension board and/or fair board. For information on developing a grievance process see: "Section 2.7: Grievances and Protest".

County Fair Policy Authority (Section 10.4.1, Kansas 4-H Policy)

- The extension board is the policy-making authority for the 4-H Youth Development division of the fair. Rules and regulations must conform to policies and procedures established by the Director for Extension and the State 4-H Program Leader.
- Fair boards may not establish rules and regulations for participation of 4-H members in the 4-H division at fairs/expositions/shows. Extension boards, in partnerships with fair boards, may propose eligibility requirements, such as 4-H club meeting attendance policies, for participating in a livestock or project sale, auction, or similar event for 4-H exhibitors. If eligibility rules are established and approved by the extension board, requirements should be in place and communicated to all 4-H participants by October 1, the beginning of the 4-H year.
- Local K-State Research and Extension offices have the right to determine the official fair/showcase opportunity for project learning in the local unit and to determine which 4-H exhibits advance to the state fair from their local unit.
